Engineer Fowler of the New Haven train said that when at §Seventy-second street he got ithe white signal, which was a signal to go ahead. There was no ringing of the beliether as is customary when the danger signal is up. He was running at the rate of about twenty miles an hour on the North bound track. He was so close to the "shop" train before he was aware of it that he telescoped it before he was hardly able to put on the air breaks. The "shop train" consisted the air breaks. The "shop train" of seven cars, including several sleepers, that had come into the Grand Central Depot early in the morning and were on the way to the repair shop as is the custom after a trip. Another is that of a newsboy, aged about 15, name unknown. The firemen claim that there are no more bodies in the wreck and have abandoned the search. On the other hand, the police who were on the scene early insist that there are. Claude Burard, while on his way to work, heard a crash as if a building had fallen. The next moment he heard an outcry for help. Four young men who were in the neighborhood joined him and all rushed around to the Eighty-fifth street opening and took a ladder from a buildstreet opening and took a ladder from a build ing in the course of erection. They placed it over the iron railing which surrounds the openings in the tunnel and lowered it down the opening whence the cries of distress came. Ry this time, however, one of the cars had caught fire and the heat and the party of the cars had caught for any the cars had caught and smoke drove the rescuers back. The cries for help still continued and as fast as they could they transferred the ladder to still another opening further north. The first man to be helped out was Coulbred, then a man named McEver and Frank Carder, a sergeant-major stationed at David's Island. As soon as the flames were seen the party of rescuers sent in an alarm to the fire company rescuers sent in an alarm to the fire company at Eighty-fifth street. The firemen re-sponded promptly and a hose was at once directed upon the burning cars. It was soon discovered that nearly all those in the two rear cars had been killed. During the first fifteen minutes after the collision two armics. sions were heard, caused by the blowing out of the cylinder heads of a locomotive. This was the light locomotive which had no cars attached. It was thrown from the rails when it collided with the New Haven train. Both it coilided with the New Haven train. Both the engineer and fireman escaped without serious injury. After the fire had been mas-tered the firemen with axes tried to clear away the debris so as to be able to get at the bodies. It was finally decided to pull the two cars apart, and the locomotive of the New Haven train, with a tear and crash, parted the two cars, drawing one of them about ten feet from the other.

cuting Attorney Estep this afternoon charge known as a Austrian bond swindle. It seems known as a Austrian bond swindle. It seems that Haberle was employed as a sub-agent for Horner of New York City, in the sale of foreign bonds with premium attachments. Three years ago he sold to a saloon-keeper named Metzger four Austro-Hungarian bonds for which the saloon man paid in monthly installments, in less than two years. It is alleged that last October Haberle went to Metzger's places and saloon man paid in monthly installments, in less than two years. It is alleged that last October Haberle went to Metzger's place and told the saloon keeper that one of his bonds had drawn a premium of from $200 to $5,000, the exact amount not having been definitely ascertained and that he insisted that he would have to take all of the bonds away in order to establish the sale to the satisfaction of the higher officials of the company. The saloon-keeper gave up the bonds, he says, and has seen them no more. He has paid dozens of visits to the main office of the company in this city, only to be informed that Haberle had been discharged some time before the bonds were delivered into his possession. Haberle cannot now be found, although Metzger has prosecuted his search for the man most assiduously. This morning Metzger was again in the office of Mr. Estep at the Four Courts, and was told that if he would return this afternoon with the numbers of the bonds and the receipts of payment for the same, a warrant for fraud ent for the same, a warrant for fraud

A NEWSPAPER CARRIER'S TROUBLES. How One of St. Louis' Novel Writers Lost His Greatest Work.

His Greatest Work.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Estep issued a warrant this morning charging Frank Bleich with fraud. The action is a peculiar one in several respects, involving as it does, the title to the manuscript of a German novel, from which the author claims great profits. It appears that Joseph Pohle, a newspaper carrier, fiving at 61? Carr street, is of a somewhat literary turn of mind and has at various times within the past ten years produced a number of short novels and stories in the German language and some of them have appeared in the local German papers. Recently, however, after more than a year of work the ambitious author completed his masterpiece, a novel of considerable length entitled "Die Erbin von Suedholz." Wishing to preserve the original manuscript of the work he placed the ""copy" in the hands of a young man named Frank Bleich, who was to be paid $5 per 100 pages for copying the matter. There were about five hundred pages of the copy and Bleich was to be paid $25 for the job. His bride was in New York City, however, and he secured an advance of $15 in order that he were about five hundred pages of the copy and Bleich was to be paid $25 for the job. His bride was in New York City, however, and he secured an advance of $15 in order that he might raise enough money to bring her to $t. Louis. The other $10 was to be devoted to the payment of a debt which Bleich owed Pohle. This was more than a month ago. Early in the week Pohle received a communication from Gerbard Kreienbaum, proprietor of a saloon and boarding-house at 1800 North Main street, to the effect that he was holding the manuscript of the novel as security for the payment of the $20 due Bleich from Pohle. Pohle at once went to Kreienbaum's place and learned that Bleich had boarded at the house. He had represented to Kreienbaum that he was to be paid $35 for his work and insisted that only $15 had been paid. His board bill with Kreienbaum amounted to $20, and on the strength of these representations Kreienbaum agreed to accept the manuscript in payment of the obligation. Mr. Estep issued a warrant charging Bleich with fraud. The defendant lives at $300 South with faul. Mr. Estep issued a warrant charging Bleich with fraud. The defendant lives at 300 South Broadway. Ereienbaum still has the manuscript of the novel in his possession and a writ of replevin may be Pohle's resort to regain possession of "die product of mein intellect," as he pathetically expressed it to Mr. Estep.

THE GAS ELECTRIC LIGHT DEAL.

It Only Lacks the Ratification of Stoci

The deal by which the Laclede Gas-Light Co. acquires control of the Municipal and Missouri Electric Light companies cannot be finally closed for at least two months. Terms have been agreed on by the officers of the companies concerned and everything is practically settled. All that remains to be done to close the deal is to have the stockholders of the concerns ratify the action of their officers. This they will undoubtedly do, though, of course, they have the rower to wote other. ficers. This they will undoubtedly do, though, of course, they have the power to vote otherwise. The delay in closing the deal comes from the fact that the stockholders of the companies have to hold meetings and approve it. So far as the Laclede and Municipal companies are concerned, this could be done in a short time, but the Missouri Co., which is a branch of the Westinghouse Co. of Pittsburg, will have to give its stockholders fair notice of the meeting, and sixty days is generally considered a fair notice. They operate under a different charter from the Laclede and Municipal companies. As the Missouri Co. will have to give its stockholders sixty days in onlice of the meeting, to be held to vote on the question of ratifying the deal, the other two companies have decided to de likewise, and the call for the meetings will probably be inserted in the newspapers in a week ably be inserted in the newspapers in a week ably be inserted in the newspapers in a week or so, and it will, therefore, be sixty-five or seventy days before the deal can receive the requisite seal of approval from the stockholders of the companies. As stated, however, these meetings will practically be mere matters of form, as the transaction will undoubtedly be approved.

The price paid for the Missouri company The price paid for the Missouri company will really be $1,160,000, of which $60,000 will be cash. The Laclede is to pay $1,800,000 for the Municipal plant and assume a floating debt of $600,000, getting as collateral $457,000 of the company's bond now held in the treasury. This will make the actual cost of the plant pretty close to $2,000,000. The Laclede will pay the interest on the $300,000 worth of 6 per and will pay $600,000 for the company's $500, 000 capital stock, raising the money by plac ing a second mortgage on the plant.

ST. LOUIS, Mc. Feb. 18, 1891. ]

General Orders No. 12:

1 After days of anxious watching for favorable news from the bedside of Comrade William Tecumseh Sherman, and after the receipt of intelligence which seemed to justify the indulgence of hope of his recovery, the final notification of his demise on Saturday, the 14th inst., at 1:50 o'clock p. m., has cast a gloom of sorrow over the whole country, and especially over this department, which it will take months to remove. He was the only survivor of the prominent Union chieftains of the war of the rebellion, and he was the only one who, being aituated in the South and identified with Southern interests at the outbreak of the war, unsheathed his sword in defence of the government which had given him his military education. General Orders No. 12:

His fame as a soldier who thoroughly understood His fame as a soldier who thoroughly understood the art of war has become a part of the history of the world, and nothing can now be written or said which would add to or detract from the well-merited laurel wreath earned by him. His kindly, disposition towards the humble participants in the struggle for the defence of the Union, as well as his eminent military services in behalf of his country, endeared him to all of his late comrades. Although born in Lancaster, O., he was the idol of this, the State of his acoption, and particularly of this department of the Grand Army of the Republic, which he so ably represented in its national encampments as Representative-at-Large by unanimous election each year since he became a member of the organization. He lived beyond the allotted age of threescore years and ten, having been born Feb. 8, 1820, and never ceased to make an exemplary use of his great faculties and, remarkable kindness of disposition. The record of such a life is in itself a solace which no language of consolation could supply. To the members of Gen. GEN. SHBRMAN'S BODT EN ROUTE'TO ST. LOUIS—MOURNERS AND ESCORT.

New York, Feb. 20.—The remains of Gen. Sherman are now whirling along toward St. Louis, the final resting place, on the special train which left at 4:37 p. m. The train consisted of eight cars, all heavily draped.

The first was a composite car, and was intended solely for the conveyance of the remains. Next were the sleeping cars "Liverpool" and "Danville." Then the dining car, No. 704. The sleeping cars obyo and Cadi came next, then President Roberts' private car, which was for the use of the family of the dead General, and last Vice-President Thompson's private car, for the use of President Harrison and the members of the Cabinet. All of the cars were draped in mourning. The interior of the composite car was entirely covered with black cloth, and on the floor was a handsome carpet. In the center stood a catafalque on which the casket, covered with a silk flag, was placed and rested. By the side of the casket on a stand was placed the saddle, bridle, boots and other equipments of the dead soldier. When the party had boarded the train the occupants of the cars were:

The train ran as the third section of No. 9, the regular Western express, and started away at 4:37 p. m. At Mantua the train entered the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and proceeded West as the first section of the Western express. The train did not enter the depot at Philadelphia, but went out on the "Y," stopping only long shough to change engines.

As the train passed the city the bells tolled ad minute guns were fired from the hill des, while all flags drooped at half mast in the driving rain.

The principal persons on the funeral train were greatly pleased at the reception given them during their stay in Pittsburg. Father Sherman was seen by several priests of this city. To some of them and the military officers he conveyed the thanks of the family for the quiet, unostentatious, but imposing reception given the dead hero in this city.

In this interval engines were changed and the car in which President Harrison, Secre-tary Blaine and members of the Cabinet were was uncoupled and attached to the Washington Express. At Mantua a great crowd of switchmen and railroad employes came run-ning from all parts of the yards when the train stopped, lanterns bobbing up and down as they ran. They remained standing in groups about the car in which the remains were until the train started. During the stop, Secretary Blaine went into the car where the Sherman family were and bid them all good bye. At 9:30 o'clock the train started from Mantua to make the run of 103 miles to Harrisburg, the next stop. About 10 o'clock the members of the family and nearly all the others on the train retired for the

On the depot platform drawn up in line, with heads uncovered, was a company of Grand Army veterans. Behind them and to the right and left of them stood sev-eral hundred people, men, women and chil-dren. Not a word was uttered as the train rolled slowly by. It was the mute testimonial of respect by the good people of Lancaster to one of the greatest of Generals. Harrisburg was reached at 12:18 o'clock. Everybody on board the train was asleep except the train hands. A great crowd was in waiting to pay the last tribute of respect to the departed chieftain. Only the uniformed organizations and Representatives of the Legislature were allowed to pass through the gates, but hundreds of citizens packed the balcony of the station and watched the train while it stood in the depot and until it disappeared from view. CROWDS AS PITTSBURG.

Early this morning thousands gathered along the line to see the funeral train pass. The crowd was greater at the depot where the Eighteenth Regiment and representatives from every Grand Army post in the city were gathered to do honor to the dead soldier. When the train drew into Allegheny station the great crowd uncovered their heads, the band struck up a low dirge and the veterans first laid their tattered army flags beside the casket, followed by a lovely floral emblem from the Union Veteran Legion. A heavily draped engine drew up to take the place of a similarly clad locomotives that had ended its run. The Eighteenth Regiment Band played a soldier's requiem, "Rest," and the train journeyed to the West. At every suburban station and even along the line, great crowds gathered and all uncovered in the momentary presence of the dead.

GRANITE MOUNTAIN STOCK TAKES AN-OTHER TUMBLE TO-DAY.

No Bidders and Numerous Offerings on the Mining Exchange—A. B. Coit's Private Sales of the Stock—The English Syndicate Option.

asked again more earnestly than ever

Granite Mountain stock and of this declin over $2,000,000 has been recorded during the last forty-eight hours. To account for such been a variety of rumors afloat, but as yet only one definite fact is known. That fact is that there have been large private sales of the stock made within the past ten days, which has caused a sudden smaller holders that refuses to be allayed.

GRANITE MOUNTAIN TRADES TO-DAY.

The Mining Exchange opened this morning with Granite Mountain stock quoted at $31.50, the closing price yesterday, when over seven hundred shares were dumped on the market.

When Granite Mountain was reached on the call to the last last Mallally bulled to the pharms.

shares constituted all that was done in Gran

REASONS FOR THE DECLINE. It is said now that there is no bear raid being made on the stock, but that the decline is purely natural for the reasons given above. It promises to develop into a genuine 'slump'' through an unexpected cause. Lothe aggregate on small lots of the stock. The majority of these loans, made at a time when Granite Mountain was quoted away above $40, were on a basis of $30 per share. When the decline of the past two weeks continued until loans were called, and yesterday and to day others are said to have been called. The re-sult is that there is a strong desire among many of the smaller holders to realize on their holdings, and brokers are instructed to sell if they can do so without too great a sac rifice. This leaves the stock in such a condi-tion on the market that any bid not below $30 will result in a sale. How many hours $30 will be the trading line is one of the problems on Third street to-day.

COIT'S SALES OF THE STOCK. There is no question but that A. B. Colt, of New York, formerly of the St. Louis firm of Golsan, Colt & Co., has been a heavy seller of the stock at private sales. He has not sold one share on the Mining Exchange, but it is acknowledged that he has been selling. The sales have been made largely through the present firm of Golsan, Coit & Cot, the junior member of which is a brother of Mr. A. D. Coit. One year ago Mr. Cott held 10,400 shares of Granite Mountain stock. It is learned from an antirely reliable source that he does not an entirely reliable source that he does not an entirely reliable source that he does not hold 7,000 shares now, and that 800 shares were sold by him within the past few days. It is extremely probable that Mr. Coit has in reality sold at least 5,000 shares of the stock in all. The feason given for the sale is that he desires to make a "change of investment." His stock does not, it is said, average more than $7 per share in its cost to him, as it was all bought in the early days of the great 8t. Louis "Bonanza." Besides this, he has drawn dividends on it for the past three or four years, so that if he had

"What's the matter with Granite Moun

If that question was asked once on Thir street, on the Merchants' Exchange, and down on the mining board this morning, it was asked 500 times, and nobody seemed able to answer it definitely. It was still being asked when the mining call was opened and while it was being asked Granite Mountain stock was again jumped on, with only Broker Joe Mullally standing in the breech, and hammered down to the lowest point it has reached yet. And then the question was

Within the past ten days there has been a lecline of nearly $5,000,000 in the value of

When Granite Mountain was reached on the call to-day Jas. Mullally bid $31 for ten shares. The stock was offered by several brokers at $31.50 and $81.65, and finally ten shares were sold by Harry Louderman to Mullally for $31. The latter then bid $30.75 and $30.50 for ten-share lots, but the sale of ten shares was all the trading done on the call. Immediately afterwards Louderman sold Mullally thirty shares for $30.50, the lowest point yet reached by the stock. Then two sales aggregating forty shares constituted all that was done in Gran.

shares constituted all that was done in Granite Mountain stock up to noon, as Mullally, the only buyer, refused to trade at figures above $30.50 after that.

"In less than one week," said a broker, when the attempted deals in that stock had died away, "you will see Granite Mountain selling for $25. There's nothing to keep it up. Nobody is standing under it, and there are plenty of people willing to sell, and some who will have to sell."

The reasons given on the street for this

The reasons given on the street for this state of things are numerous. It is said that the March dividend on Granite Mountain will almost certainly be passed. The ore taken out of late has been steadily decreasing in quality; the expense of getting it out from the lower levels is increasing rapidly; the decline in silver alone, it is said, reduces the revenue of the great mine fully 20 per cent, and the recent expenditures in machinery, etc., in the mine still further decreases the early days of the great St. Louis "Bonanza."

Besides this, he has drawn dividends on it for the past three or four years, so that if he had cause to believe that it was best to get rid of the stock, he could do so at almost any figure and still be way ahead on his speculation. Mr. Colt states now that he will sell no more of his stock, and that he had no reason for selling what he did except that he wanted the money for another investment. But it is to the sales made by him that the panic in Granite Mountain is due, and also to the fact that there has apparently been no attention paid to the decline by the syndicate of St. Louisans owning the great bulk of the stock. They adopt the policy of letting the stock take care of itself on the market, and it is only the smaller fry who are concerned in the present flurry.

THE ENGLISH SYNDICATS OFTION.

Another significant combination of circumstances was pointed out to-day. Last October an option on the Granite Mountain mine was given to the representative of an English syndicate at figures which made the mine cost the prospective English purchasers an aggregate of about $7,000,000. The option was given without a forfeit being required. It was considered a remarkable thing in local financial circles for the owners of a property like the Granite Mountain to be willing to give an option which would allow the property to be hawked possibly from purchaser to purchaser, unless they were granted some compensation in case the trade falled to materialize. But there is no doubt that the option was given. To-day it was learned that the option had expired and the trade fallen through. What caused the English syndicate to decline to pay $17,000,000 over for a property that had already paid $12,000,000 in dividends is not known, but it is said authoritatively, that the option is "off." It may be that there is some connection between the failure of the English capitalists to become Granite Mountain owners, and the sudden desire of some American stockholders to get rid of Granite Mountain stock.

PROGRESS OF THE EPWORTH LEAGUE IN ST. LOUIS.

ots of St. Xavier's Church Being apleted – The New Cheltenham Iroh—Chinese Celebration—Dr. Nic-'s Return—General News.

The success of the Epworth League among roung methodists in this city within the past rear has been most wonderful. The league was first organized in Cleveland, O., May 15, 889, but a chapter did not come into existence in st. Louis until something like a year ago.

For some years the liberal tendency of the For some years the liberal tendency of the Christian Endeavor Society has been under discussion, and it was finally decided that an organization for young Methodists only should be brought to the front, hence the birth of the Epworth League, which in form of service is almost most exactly the same as the Christian Endeavor Society. The work of organization has leavor Society. The work of organizing has been done so quietly that the Endeavor people did not realize that they were being growded been done so quietly that the Endeavor people did not realize that they were being crowded out of Methodist churches until their hold was did not realize that they were being crowded out of Methodist churches until their hold was lost. No rules were put in force which required the members to withdrew from the Endeavor Society, but quiet argument proved the more effective. Gradually the young people went over to the Epworth League, and attended meetings of their society at their own churches. The motto of this fast-growing young society is: "We live to make our own church a power in the world, while we live to love every other church which exalts our Christ," which is construed to mean that the organization was founded because the church authorities were fearful that some of their members should be weaned away by outside associations from the strict discipline enforced by the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The league now has a membership of nearly 2,600 in the city, with constant additions. This represents at least 2,000 members lost to the Christian Endeavor societies, which, however, are still flourishing. Both branches of the Methodist Church have taken up the Epworth League idea with good success. In speaking of the matter a minister of the interested denomination said:

"Methodists are not narrow minded at all,

"Methodists are not narrow minded at all, and this is simply a move to preserve in the church the younger members who may seek other spiritual guides if not surrounded with Methodist influence. This we are attempting to do and I think will be successful. The organization of the Epworth League was not accomplished because the Christian Endeavor fell below what it was intended for, but for the reason that the Epworth League would be a thorough church affair and not a conglomeration of faiths and opinions, such as exists in the Christian Endeavor societies. This cannot fairly be called narrow-minded. This cannot fairly be called narrow-minded ss. as we only ask our members to associ ate with the Epworth League, attaching no

The ladies, in their petition, both demand and pray that recognition be accorded them.

THE POPULATION OF ST. LOUIS. Decrease of 10,000 Made by the Census

official population of St. Louis has at en announced and St. Louis will go on last been announced and St. Louis will go on record as having had 451,770 inhabitants on the 1st of June, 1800. This is a reduction of over 10,000 from the figures given out by the Government after the recount last fall, which is explained by the census office at Washington as follows: "The change in the population of St. Louis is due to the fact that in the haste with which the figures for the city were first compiled, pending a decision in regard to the re-enumeration of the city, the totals for several enumeration districts were duplicated in making up the city total. Also for several enumeration of the city, the totals for several enumeration districts were du-plicated in making up the city total. Also some minor changes have been made, due to the work of final revision which has been in process for some time. The figures as an-nounced by the Census Office as the result of the first, or rough count, were given out with the understanding that they were subject to change in the work of final revision. In spite of the fact that a large and in perienced force was put upon a work of the intricate character, as was necessarily such intricate character, as was necessarily the case, the completed work of final revision for the entire United States has developed but one or two errors, which were also due to conditions similar to those occasioning the errors in the complication of the returns for St. Louis. Every possible check has been put upon the work of the census office to prevent errors of this kind, but in spite of the closest supervision an occasional error occurred in the first count, only to be discovered and corrected, as they should, in the work of final and careful revision of the figures prior to the official announcement."

As the supplemental enumeration added 12,283 names to our census list, the Weigel census gave the city 439,537 inhabitants, about what Maj. Weigel estimated it, so the mistake in figuring up was done at Washington and not in St. Louis.

and not in St. Louis.

The loss which St. Louis suffers by the correction does not change her rank as the fifth city of the Union in population, as Boston, our most dangerous rival in that respect, is officially given but 446,507 inhabitants, and Baltimore, the next in rank, but 433,547.

Our main objects are to secure fair rates from the rail roads on confections and to guard against the use of adulterants in the manufacture of candy. Through the efforts of our association we had laws passed in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohlo and Illinois to put a stop to adulteration, and we now have a bill pending in the Missouri Legislature which we hope to see enacted. There are two alloys that are used by some dealers in the manufacture of candy, these being "terra alba" and "taic," the latter being a Vermont production. It has been proven injurious, and we want to stop its use as well as that of terra alba and the other adulterating materials. The Farm Machinery Dealers.

The arrangements for the convention of the retail agricultural implement dealers which takes place here next Tuesday and Wednesday are about completed. Deales from every State in the Union are expected to attend to participate in the effort that will be made to form a national association. The leaders in the movement say that for years the agricultural implement vehicle trade has been surrounded by discouraging conditions, owing to the fact that the 50,000 or more retail handlers of implements have never got well enough acquainted to discuss the various phases of the trade to avoid unneccessary and ruinous competition. They claim further that the movement is not intended to antagonize the manufacturers or the farmers who purchase the implements; but for the sole purpose of placing the business on a more profitable basis. The convention will discuss various plans of effecting State and county organizations having a national head. It is expected that a later meeting will be held for the purpose of following up the work expected to be performed next week. This meeting will probably be held in October.

ABANDONING THE FAIR

The Boston Herald considers the present condition of the World's Fair project a subject for serious regret, because Chicago's people have utterly failed to exhibit the public spirit needed to creditably carry out the enterprise. They have intereste themselves in it only to show that they were "on the make" and are governed by "the overpowering force of a mercenary disposition." They have made it a bone of contention between cliques of real estate speculators, and the Herald is convinced that "if a fair is ever held in Chi-'cago under the influences that have thus 'far dominated the preparations for this 'event, the visitors will fare very much "as they would if they inadvertently "strolled into a den of thieves." It would be "such a humiliating illustration of human cupidity that it would reflect disastrously upon the name and fame of "our country." Therefore the Herald oncludes that "the best plan would be to entirely abandon the undertaking." The spirit manifested by the speculators who are managing the thing is reflected by the laborers, and a Chicago paper says that "contractors for the excavating work in Jackson Park have 'been interfered with by mobs, who have 'bullied the laborers into giving up the work." The Chicago mobs, it seems have announced that only Chicago labor shall be employed in the preparations and that the nationality of the enterprise shall be vindicated with bricks and bludgeons used in breaking the arms and heads of any laborers who come there from Toledo or any other city to earn a dollar out of Chicago's fair.

The town which is alternately excited over Anarchist massacres and Whisky Trust plots to blow up distilleries was certainly an unfortunate selection for a World's Fair location, and the outlook for a creditable outcome is certainly unfavorable. But until Chicago chooses to abandon the project the rest of the country can only look on regretfully and let her go ahead in her own way and make a failure of it.

FREE COINAGE LIMITED.

It is rumored that President HARRISO would be willing now to compromise on free coinage limited to the output of our own mines. As there is no certain way of distinguishing American silver from any other, his proposition would take the form of free coinage limited to 4,500,000 ounces per month. That is the amount we now buy at the market price and store as bullion, issuing circulating notes in its

By substituting this limited free coinage for the purchasing method we would simply guarantee the sellers of 54,000,000 ounces of silver $1.29 per ounce instead of the market price, and take that much bullion entirely out of the market as a commodity. Under our present method Clerk of the Colorado Senate, is a young and it remains a commodity, cornered in a way | very pretty woman. to be dumped upon the market or with-In the shape of coined dollars, worth more than the bullion they contain, it would be entirely out of the market and beyond the reach of the melting pot. If the Government's policy is to force up the price of silver bullion, this is a surer way of accomplishing the object than WINDOM's method, and there would be no more of danger THE enumeration of the blunders of the ous inflation in the addition of $80,000,000 of coined silver to our currency every year than in the issue of the same amount of notes based on warehoused silver bullion. But it would be such a big thing for mine owners and such a big stride in the direction of unlimited free coinage, that no one need count on its rejection by the friends of free coinage. They will hardly reject the offer of a larger loaf because it is not so large a one as they want.

In adopting the recommendation of the committee's report on the claims of the St. Louis Asylum for insane paupers, the Legislature will simply do an act of tardy justice. St. Louis pays a larger share of State taxes in proportion to population of city and State than any other city in the West, and consequently has paid more than her just share of the cost of all the State asylums while taking care of her own insane at her own expense. But the report shows that while doing this she has been supporting in her asylum as many patients whose support was justly chargeable to the State, as of patients who m it was the city's duty to care for. By assuming its own proper share of this cost the State will do but scant justice, as the city does not ask reimbursement of former expenditures for the support of more than her share of the State's insane paupers.

WHEN a sub-committee of the Committee on Treasurer's Books reported to the House at Little Rock that Treasurer WOODRUFF's trustees had paid into the Treasury the full amount due from him, the House voted unanimously to expunge the report from the proceedings and return the paper to the committee with instruc-tions to report more fully all the facts concerning the payments, by whom made, the amounts paid by each individual trustee. and on what accounts. APTER figuring at the enumeration for six months the Census Bureau has made the remarkable discovery that, in its first ment, it correctly counted the figures for the whole State, but made nistake of about 10,000 in overcounting the eparate population of St. Louis. This may be accepted as the final official correction upon which the redistricting must proceed, but the discoveries and correction of gross blunders in the census work have been so startling and continuous that th Eleventh census will always rank but little above a rough guess at the population

The opening of the Vall case this morning was the most business-like proceeding that has yet occurred in the court. The jury filed in, the defendant and his family were in their accustomed places; the attorneys took their at once. Before the opening of court Sheriff Culkin made a brief but eloquent address to the audience, in which he delivered the warning that while the authority of the court loud laughter and would by ejecting any per-make everyone nervous, and, in spite of the frequent "last warnings" given by the Court, a laugh breaks out when anything occurs just as school children laugh at any thing that is not expected. Sheriff Culking has grown so accustomed to crying "silence" that he shouts it as soon as he hears a sound crowd moving. "Slience," shouted Mr. Culkin, and just then every one looked through the windows and saw hugh volumes of snow falling from the roof and then there was a laugh sure enough. The audies was a laugh sure enough. The audience is hard to manage, for it is large and deeply interested. Every seat in the court-room is crowded, every inch of standing room occupied, and the spectators even sit and stand upon the railings to see and hear. Out in the corridor a crowd bent on entering blocks the way to the court-room, and makes passage impossible. An officer stationed there is instructed to permit no one to enter after the seats and standing room are gone, and he has the most difficult task of anyone about the room. The back doors and those leading into the room from the adjoining i offices into the room from the adjoining i offices are kept looked to prevent those who are familiar with the plan of the building from gaining entrance by back passages. When the court adjourns for dinner a part of the crowd rushes out, a part endeavors to re-main and the crowd which has been outside main and the crowd wh pushes in, willing and glad to sit on the hard benches for an hour to be sure of a place when the hearing is resumed.

LIFE INSURANCE AGENT CALLED.
The first witness called this morning was Mr. E. J. Thomas of the New York Life insurance Co., who was examined by Mr. Dryden. He testified that he had known Vall ace 1883, and since that time he had is to him eighteen policies. One was for $1,000, payable to his aunt, one for $5,000 and one for $5,000, payable to himself, all of which were 53,000, payable to himself, all of which were in force at the present time. He had issued to him five policies for $1,000 each, payable to himself, which had lapsed.

Mr. Thomas said that he had once had a conversation with Vall concerning the insurance of women. Vall told him that he spoke of the wife of a friend. Mr. Thomas explained to him the circumstances under which women were insured and a short time. plained to him the circumstances under which women were insured, and a short time after that, in July last, Vail drove up to his house in a buggy with a lady whom he introduced as his wife. He said that was the lady whom he had spoken about insuring. They discussed the policy and afterwards Vail and his wife called at the office and she made out an application for a policy. He sent the application to the Mutual Life Insurance Co., and was rejected because the company would not insure a married woman who had never borne children.

"Did you ever have a conversation with im about who the legal repres ife were?" asked Mr. Dryden, "Yes," replied Mr. Thomas.

'I don't know.

'Was it before the application was made?'

"Yes."
"What did you tell him?"
"That he, as the husbadd, was the legal

"Why did you tell him that?"
"Because I had inquired of the company."
"Why did you inquire of the company?"
"Because I was asked to."

'By Mr. Vail." Mr. McDonaid then took the witness and Mr. Thomas testified that he had received from Vall $500 or $600 for insurance. Vail always took out a policy when he (the witness) asked him to, though he had to be worked on. Mr. Thomas said that Vail farnished him butter for a year and the butter went on Vail's account. He took money from the premiums if Vail had it to pay and he also credited him with the butter he furnished him. Mr. Thomas then identified a number of policies which he had issued to Vail at various times, payable to his estate. Mr. McDonaid wanted to put them in evidence to show that Vail had been an "insurance crank" for years and the insurance he took out on his wife's life was no indication of any intention, but only of Vail's eagerness, even Mr. McDonald then took the witness and Mr.

intention, but only of Vall's eagerness, even before he met his wife, to insure. Mr. McDonald asked Mr. Thomas if the day when he called at the house with Mrs. Vall when he caucat the noise with the was not "butter day."

Mr. Thomas said Mr. Vail did not bring him butter on any regular day, but he could not say that Vail did not bring butter that day. He bought butter and eggs from Vail, as he had to buy them from somebody, and he credited them on the account.

Mr. McDonald asked: "Mr. Thomas, did'nt you consider Mr. Vail a crank on insurance? I don't use the word crank in a vulgar sense, but as expressive of the idea?" but as expressive of the idea?"
The question was objected to. Mr.McDonald argued that he had a right to show that the defendant had a hobby and it was insurance; that therefore the insurance of his wife furnished no motive for a crime.

The court ruled that the defendant could show the policies and the jury could draw such conclusions, but no witness could do so. Mr. McDonald interrupted the Court in its ruling and the Court then interrupted Mr. McDonald. Yesterday afternoon the Court notified Mr. McDonald that his side remarks must be stopped and if they were not the Court would exercise its authority to compel it. The result has been at this late day the trial has assumed the dismitted character. Which everyone ex-

A DOG FOR A POLICY. A DOG FOR A POLICY.

Mr. McDonaid went into a lengthy examination of Mr. Thomas on the question of milk; why he did not buy milk from Mr. Vall agreed to furnish Mr. Thomas a certain amount of milk for a certain policy. Mr. Thomas was shown a letter he had written concerning the proposition and he said he had no recollection of such matters, but he was willing to say that if Vall took out the policy proposed he had no doubt that the deal was made. The letter referred to a "pup" and Mr. Thomas said in the letter that his wife objected to dogs and added: "You know the ladies have to be pleased." Mr. McDonaid asked, "Mow, did you propose to take a pup in trade for insur-

"I am very fond of dogs."
"What kind of a pup was this?"
"I dont know. "It must have been a valuable one, or I would not have wanted it."
He also had a discussion with Vali concerning the sale of a cow, but they made no trade. Questioning Mr. Thomas about the accident policies, Mr. McDonald asked if Mr. Thomas remembered that Vali told him at the time he began taking our secident policies that a wall began taking out accident policies that a wail fell down on Main street, and he had to jump into a vault to save himself. Mr. Thomas said he remembered such a conversation, but he did not remember when

MB. HILL ON THE STAND.

William C. Hill was the next witness. Sheriff Culkin called "William L. Hill" three times and he did not answer. When Clerk Patt'son corrected the Sheriff and called "William C. Hill" he came forward.

He testified that he was formerly employed by the New York Life Insurance Co., and that Vail, whom he had known for twenty years, took out two policies in his company, one for himself and one for his wife for $5,000. His policy was never put in force. Mr. Vail's policy was written at 1724 Olive street. Witness went there at Vail's suggestion. Prior to July 10, there at Vail's suggestion. Prior to July 10, 1889, he had a conversation with Vail concerning a policy on another person. They were speaking at the time of the sister. Vail wanted the policy on his wife's life written in favor of her estate and witness told him that could not be: it must be written in favor of the site must be written in the site must be written in favor of the site must be written in could not be; it must be written in favor of her children. He was asked if he met Vall after death of Mrs. Vall. His answer was: "I did."

"What was that conversation?" was asked.
"Nothing was said about the insurance particularly. We spoke of the accident."
"What, if anything, did he say to you about letting him have some money?"
Mr. McDonald objected and the objection was overruled.

On cross-examination he said that the cow was valued at $125, and it was to apply on both policies, but witness wrote Vali that he was short of money when the first premium was due, and he wanted Vali to pay what was due the company in the first pay-ment, and he (Hill) would pay the next. On re-direct examination he said that Mr.
Vali did not ask him to lend him $200. He nerely said that he wanted the money. Wm. L. Hill, the General Agent of the New York Life Insurance Co., testified that he did not know Vall, had never seen him and had never had any correspondence with him. Mr. Dryden asked him if his company had issued

He testified that he had been practicing in the city for three and one-half years and had known Mrs. Vail for six years.

He took the lines. He got irritated with the horse, which was a fractious animal, and Mr. Vail cut him over the head with a whip. The horse got away from him and ran away. On cross-examination Dr. McElwee said that he was the family physician of the Siatery's, the administrator of the estate and that a certain policy had been transferred to him. Gov. The Alleged Gillham Murderers. EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Feb. 20 .- The prelim inary hearing in the case of George Starkey, John Brown and R. F. The hearing was arranged for yester-day, but cortein processary witnesses could day, but certain necessary witnesses could not be called in time. At the time of the tragedy nearly one year ago, not the slightest clew seemed to be held by the people of the neighborhood, and the excitement which was intense appeared doomed to cool off under the effects of time without any de-Willard Gilfham, gave up all else and devoted himself to tracing the murderers of his father, sparing neither patience nor money in the pursuit of his object. He was assisted by other relatives. Gillham's suspicions in regard to the parties now under arrest were aroused by a conversation overheard between two of them, from which he concluded they knew more than they talked about. Brown, at this time, was living at Wyatt's house in Alton. Starkey left there about this time and was traced to St. Joseph, Mo. It was learned that Wyatt had been Willard Gilfham, gave up all else and devoted Mo. It was learned that Wyatt had be there also, but had gone to Kansas City. He was traced to Omaha, and there interviewed by Gillham and Lowe who were accompanied by E. F. Sherman of Kansas City, a former employe of Wyatt. What passed between these persons is not

His petition charges that Mrs. Irene Smith was on May 18, 1895, married to Joseph Harris, who is still living, and from whom she has not been divorced. That subsequently she entered into an alleged marriage with Charles Conklin, with whom she lived two years, and from whom she has not been divorced.

Smith's matrimonial troubles were aired publicly a few days after his marriage, when a fact that Wyatt consented to come to Madison County, and arrived here with Gillham and Lowe on Saturday evening, Feb. 7. Henry weimann, by his will probated to day, leaves all of his estate to his wife, who is made executor.

WILL CONTEST THE WILL.

A dispatch from Galena, Ill., states that the Galena heirs will contest the will on the ground that Mr. Soulard was not in condition to make a valid will in 1888, or, in fact, at any time during the past ten years. These Galena heirs are the widow of James G. Soulard's deceased brother and her two daughters, Mrs. Harriet Webb and Mrs. H. S. McCloskey. Under the will each of the daughters would receive one-twenty-fourth of the estate, they being two of the six children of James G. Soulard, and their mother would receive nothing, but with the will broken the widow would receive a one-third dower interest in half of the estate, and each of the children would be entitled to one-sixth of two-thirds of one-half of the estate, or one-eighteenth of it. In other words, the one-eighteenth of it. In other words, the Galena heirs would be entitled to five-eigh-teenths of the estate without a will and only one-twelfth if the will is allowed to stand.

Mr. Ben Kimball will, it is said, join them in contesting the will, as it cuts him out of about $10,000, which he would be entitled to if Mr. Soulard had died intestate. Mr. Kimball is one of the children of a deceased daughter of James G. Soulard.

Edward G. Smith, who has not yet bec a man in the eye of the law, sued to-day by his next friend, Michael Smith (his father), not been divorced.

Smith's matrimonial troubles were aired publicly a few days after his marriage, when his father secured a warrant for his arrest on a charge of beating his sister. When he was arrested his new wife was also taken to the Four Courts. The story then told by her was that she had been divorced from Harris, who deserted her, and that she had been decieved by a mock marriage by Conklin, and had been deserted by him. Smith's parents charged that he was only 19 years old. He swore that he was 22 years old when he obtained the license, and a prosecution for perjury was threatened. He declared he loved the woman he had married and would not desert her. He made her acquaintance at his parents' house when she was boarding there as the pretended wife of Conklin, who is a locomotive engineer.

Young Smith and his bride did not take any one into their confidence, expecting a row, and remained out of sight for a few days after the event. Then Smith went to his father's house to get his clothes. His sister tried to prevent him, and she charged that he struck her. The application for divorce will probably settle Smith's difficulties.

Shortly after McAuliffe and Carroll had their fight I arrived in San Francisco, and, judging by the way that Jimmy talked then, was under the impression that his main object in life was to get another chance at McAuliffe. He and his friend Billy Jordan rang the changes on this desire night, noor and morning, whenever I met them, and they incessantly urged me to write East and taunt McAuliffe with this desire. Carroll's els, as thorough a sportsman as there is or the Pacific Coast, told me in the Palace Hote that he would bet from $5,000 to $10,000 on Carroll, and I felt sure that whenever Jimmy go the opportunity to fight Jack again he would jump at it like a hawk at a June bug.

I repeat I was amazed when, after the eferce for Dempsey and Fitzsimmons had been chosen. McAultife, addressing himself to Carroll, asked: "Well, how about you and I now?" Jack had thrown himself on top of the Major's bed, and Carroll was sitting on a

I now?" Jack had thrown himself on top of the Major's bed, and Carroll was sitting on a sofa not a yard away from him. He was cleaning his nails with a pen-knife, and he neither looked up nor responded.

"You I'm talking to," sneered Jack, nettled by his show of indifference. "You've been bellyaching around the country about being crazy for another fight with me. Now's your chance." Every breath was hushed, and every ear was cocked to hear the answer. I venture the assertion that every man in the room was astonished when Carroll slowly replied in a low voice, "I don't know that I want to fight any more." No one was apparently more surprised than McAuliffe. He rose up on his elbow and, scanning Carroll's face closely to see if he was kidding, he responded in his most sarodstic tones, "Oh, you don't! Wy I thought the object of your life was to get another crack at me."

"I'may never fight again," was Carroll's rather meek reply. Again did Jack taunthim with his oft-expressed wish for another meeting. Corroll closed his knife and put it in his pocket and then said: "You know what you told me in California, Jack. You had money and you didn't have to fight. Now! have money, but it's all up on my man. I'll tell you to-morrow whether I'll fight or not. It may be that I'll haye an easier way of making a living than by fighting. It all depends on to night. I'm hay be as you were in San Francisco—have plenty of money and not want to fight. I'll tell you to-morrow." McAuliffe was disposed to taunt Carroll further, but friends interfered and took "to-morrow." AMATEUR SPARRERS AND WRESTLERS.

The statement made in yesterday's Post-Disparch that the police would not permit the sparring at the amateur sparring and wrestling tournament arranged to be held at Entertainment Hall of the Exposition last night, under the auspices of the Missouri Gymnasium and Athletic Club, was confirmed when the time came for holding the contests. There was a good attendance and the preliminary bouts in the wrestling tournament were contested and proved quite interesting. They resulted as follows: Now, if the said skater is franked by his pro makes a regular living by racing, how about the rule as to following athletics as a trade? As advertisement is one of the Manhattan Glub's chiefest aims and egds, they clearly are not so much generous patrons as speculators giving valuable consideration in exchange for services. Will R. He is now in the carpet and rug business and makes periodical visits to this city.

There is no one more outspoken than he on the amateur question. He approves the stand of the racing board on the matter of training and would go still further himself. He thinks that the racing men of to-day are nothing less than pot hunters, and that the spirit of the amateur has been almost entirely lost.

An Associated Press telegram from Utica, N.Y., contains the information that Mike Kelly yesterday secured the signature of Hardy Richardson to a Boston American As-Hardy Richardson to a Boston American Association club contract. These three men, who are three of the greatest players in America, were all on the Boston Players' team last season and so was Nash, another player reserved by the Boston National League Club, and the quartette have all gone over to the Association. It now looks as if the Association would have a much stronger team in Boston than the National League. President Spalding of the Chicago National League team is deploring the war, League. President spanding of the Unicago National League team is deploring the war, but the Association men seem satisfied, and declare there will be no compromise now, even if the players stolen from them are returned. Weekly Review.

Cattle—From the opening to the close of the cattle lepartment of the Union Yards this week, there has seen a good active business tone with an even trength on the common run of cattle at last week's rices. The run of this kind has been fairly liberal, nut everything has found buyers at quotations and he pens were empty this afternoon. Common cows and calves, however, had an easy movement, ut good grades sold well. There were sigers every day butcher cattle that arrived of every head of good butcher cattle that arrived and everything in that line such as steers, cows and alves, heifers, etc., sold strong at 10015c higher han they did at the close of last week, and the upply was below the market demands every day. The market closed steady on common and strong at motations on good to choice. The price list is peneded.

Reported by Martin Bros., Horse & Mule Market los. 1438, 1442, 1444, 1446 North Broadway. The horse market was very good this week with plenty of buyers and during the latter part of the week stock was scarce. The very liberal offerings on Monday and Tuesday had a tendency to keep prices down to last week's scale, but on Thursday and Friday, sellers were in demand and prices advanced rapidly. The demand was entirely from the South and drivers Southern horses and mares and plugs were eagerly picked up. Buyers here from Virginia, South and North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Illinois. Prices: leavy draft, extra... leavy draft, good...

Raining sverywhere that qould be heard from and moderate weather made the selling somewhat stronger than the buying at the opening, and worked the price down a little, but fears were fell that a cold snap might follow this "demned moist unpleasant" weather, and this idea checked the desire to sell somewhat. Our own receipts were small and a third went through without stopping. Considerable long May corn came out for sale and there was lively slugging of July, Frank Ryan taking a conspicuous hand in the latter play and early in the day selling a couple 100,000 lots to Sid Francis. The market worked up a small fraction early in the day and then weakened, an attempt to realize on a line of May running that option care and a constitue. The Cash-Young Tragedy.

DANVILLE, Ky., Feb. 20.—The people of this burg are not greatly surprised at the death of Edward T. Young at the hands of Clark Cash, as Cash was seen here often carrying a gun and looking about as though in search of some one. Young, though married and leaving a large family, skipped out a long while ago feeling that Cash was keeping a gun loaded for him on account of his relations with Mrs. Cash. Mr. Cash sent his wife to Arkansas City, Kan., and she has been there since last summer. She admits her intimacy with Young, whom she has just learned was killed by her husband in Dallas, Tex., Tussday evening.

John Fennelly, a fireman employed in the Planters' House, sued Thomas Burns, formerly the engineer at the Planters', in a justice's court for $18.50 wages and got judgment. Burns appealed to the Circuit Court and the appeal was tried by a jury in iDivision No. 5 yesterday. Fennelly had no counsel and the trial was made interesting to the large number of lawyers in the room by his efforts to try his own case. The jury took the case this afternoon. The dispute was over the question whether the engineer employed and paid the fireman and was responsible for unpaid wages or the employer was the proprietor of the Planters' House. Fennelly was given judgment for $18.50. sythe Embrosite.

This morning Col. W. F. Cody of North Platte, Neb., better known as "Bugfalo Bill," arrived in the city and registered at the Southern. Col. Cody is somewhat grayer and considerably stouter than he was when in this city before, but is as erect and alert as ever. "I am here to attend the funeral of Gen. Sherman," said Col. Cody, "and would have traveled thousands of miles to pay the last tribute of respect to him. I knew him intimately, as I commanded the scouts on his first expedition to the Indian country at the close of the war. A number of our Nebraska Grand Army Posts will probably be represented."

"I am not at liberty to speak of that, further than to say that I am exceedingly glad that Forsythe was restored to his command in the manner he was."

Board of Directors of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Co. for the year ending Dec. 31, 1850, is just from the press and contains some very interesting facts. It shows that the main track has been increased 83.20 miles, making total main trackage of 931.88 miles, together with 211.37 miles of side-tracks, making a grand total of 1,148.25 miles of track.

The capital stock of the company is $17, 594,500, divided between $3,479,500 preferred shares and $14,115,000 common shares. Mortage bonds and other obligations of the company amount to $16,961,660, which with the capital stock make a total obligation of $34,546,150. The earnings of the road during the year foot up $7,839,200.58, with receipts from other sources swelling the amount to $10,065,140.70, of which amount $7,631,631.17 was disbursed in dividends, interest, operating expenses, etc., leaving $2,423,509.53 on hand the first day of the present year. Of the sum charged as expenses, $816,161.49 was paid out as interest on the funded debt; $1,407,560 in dividends; $189,236.67 for sinking fund bonds purchased; new buildings, cars, etc., $189,270.78; operating expenses, including taxes, $4,82,001.55; rents for trackage, etc., $823,410.74.

The report makes the interesting statement that "more than one-fourth of the gross earnings from freight traffic during the last year was derived from products shipped at local stations." In a general summary the Directors sum up the railroad situation, in which this statement is made: "The multiplication of competing railroads and the legal restrictions imposed upon railroad managers have led to a condition of railroad managers h affairs in which strife and desperate meas ures to secure traffic characterize the method of railroad management on many Western habit of a ming to St. Louis on the early accommodation Missouri Pacific. He was seated in the Benton Depot, where at 7:05 o'clock he heard the shrill, whistle of an approaching engine. Thinking that it was the local passenger, he started arross the tracks to be in readiness to board the train. The dense fog prevented his seeing an east bound express bearing United States troops from Fort Leavenworth and the engine struck him as Leavenworth and the engine struck him as he stepped upon the rail. His body was thrown a distance of thirty feet down the track while the train thundered past. There was a number of witnesses to the accident and the body was carried to the platform. The unfortunate man's skull was horribly crushed and he breathed but a few minutes. Dr. Blackmer was soon on the scene but could do nothing and the remains were re-moved to the late residence of the deceased in Benton. Mr. Barnes was well-known in St. Louis. Punished for Inhumanely Treating Little Boy.

In a few well worded and forcible remarks Judge Cady this morning denounced John Schneider for his inexcusable cruelty mal wagons, and was arrested about 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning on complaint of a 14-year old colored newsboy named James Anderson, who had appeared in Capt. Young's office at the Four Courts and showed the omice at the Four Courts and showed the marks of violence on his neck. He said that Schneider, in order to amuse the equally unfeeling bystanders, had fastened a strap about his neck and dragged him across the floor of the stable in the rear of the office of the dead animal contractor, on Clark avenue near the corner of Eleventh street. The inhuman brute had also threatened to hang him to a rafter if he complained to the po-lice. Judge Cady heard the evidence this morning and fined Schneider $150 and costs.

THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE WAITING ON GRAIN INSPECTOR O'SHEA.

Day Lost Because the Financial Statement of the Inspector's Office Failed to Materialize - The Investigation at a Standstill.

The investigation of the State Grain In spector's office was resumed this morning by the Legislative Committee now in St. Louis for that purpose. But little has been ac-complished during the two days in which the afternoon had been spent in informal discussion of State grain inspection work, ex-chief Inspector Jasper Burks, Chief Inspector O'Shea, Railroad Commissioners Breathitt and Hennessy and ex-Railroad Commissioner Downing being present with the committee throughout their stay at inspection headquarters. The committee arrived at a fair quarters. The committee arrived at a fair understanding of the details of grain inspection as practised in St. Louis, however, and their forthcoming report on the same, accompanied, as it will be, by certain suggestions of reform and improvement, will be read with interest by the country shippers of grain concerned in the investigation.

for that purpose. But little has been accomplished during the two days in which the committee has already been at work, although it was at first expected that the necessary work of examination and investigation would be concluded in one day. The delay is occasioned by the difficulty in obtaining from the ichief grain inspector the official financial statement of the receipts and disbursements of the office since the inception of the system. It is upon that statement that the basis of the committee's report will be laid, and it was to have been ready for their inspection this morning. It was not forthcoming, however. The report of the committee, reported at the office of Chief Inspector O'Shea and again asked for the financial statement of this year's business. Mr. O'Shea stated that the document was not yet ready to be submitted to the investigation. Following the stop in the investigation. Following the stop in the investigation this morning the committee of the office in the investigation the investigation of the state grain inspection for that reason. But they favor that is being done. The farmers are of the opinion that there has been unnecessary extravagance in the management during the committee, reported at the office of the opinion that there has been unnecessary extravagance in the management during the department was at work upon it, but could not possibly get the matter in shape before the afternoon. This fact brought the work of the Investigation Committee to a dead standstill, as there was nothing more to be done in the office in the way of investigation until the financial report was ready to be acted upon. All of yesterday afternoon had been spent in informal discus-hat day.

Just to Make Trade.

SOON the months calendered as winter months will be passed. So far winter has been a nuisance. It has been fortunate for the poor. Coal is cheap and little need for it. Clothing is cheap and people have not been required to buy the heavy-weights, as in more rigorous weather.

The predictions are that the cold weather is yet to come. Whether such predictions are true or not will cut no figure with our prices in Clothing. We will sell Clothing still at prices which will make it go, weather or no weather. We have had a good trade up to date and will make its continuance sure by a further decrease in prices in lines of goods that are so desirable they will surely be bought at our low figures.

Do you know how low Clothing is? If not, come around and see. We will show you good Clothing. You may judge the prices.

He was under the influence of the weather last night and will land in the Work-house as a consequence, Smith had formerly lived with a colored woman named Mary Miller, who a short time ago left him in the lurch and has since remained at the house of her uncle, old "Gov." Allen, who lives at 520 South Second street. About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Smith called at the place and proposed that the woman resume her unlawful relations. Upon her refusal he drew a sharp pocket-knife and slashed half a dozen pieces out of her dress. When "Gov." Allen interfered he threatened to cut him. A white man, named John Homan, was attracted to the scene by the woman's screams and entered the house to ascertain the trouble. Smith knocked him down and threw him into the street. Officer Tebeau of the Central District, chased the negro to the corner of Second and Spruce streets and placed him under arrest. On the way to the patrol box the negro suddenly jerked loose and struck the officer a fearful blow in the neck. He then took to his heels and dodged in a hall-way. Tebeau followed and found the negro cornered in a court. The fugitive had a couple of bricks in his hand and as soon as the blue coat put in an appearance he hurled them in quick succession. The first struck Tebeau in the breast and the second on the left hand. Seeing that force was necessary, the officer then drew his club and used it on his assailant's head. Smith was first sent to the City Dispensary where his wounds were dressed. He was then locked up at the Four Courts. This morning he was sent into the First District Police
